State of Our Watershed Conference Fast Approaching!

We'll be explaining how development and climate change are causing a rise in pollutant levels in well water when we host our State of Our Watershed Conference from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 7, at the Oldwick Firehouse, 163 Oldwick Road, Oldwick.

Dr. David A. Robinson, New Jersey's State Climatologist, will also join us as our featured speaker.

There's still time to register for this free event. Also, anyone who registers and attends has the chance to win an Emotion Spitfire9 sit-on-top kayak and paddles graciously donated by Ramsey Outdoor!

Old Fashioned Country Fair a Resounding Success!

Crisp fall weather and sunshine drew throngs to enjoy RHA's Old Fashioned Country Fair at Fairview Farm, held on Sunday, Oct. 18, after a 2-week delay prompted by inclement weather.

Kids of all ages enjoyed various outdoor activities like Clydesdale carriage rides, pumpkin painting, a field maze, and more.

We were also very lucky to have Hub Hollow, the popular local band, return to entertain with their fabulous selections of Bluegrass, Rock, and original tunes.

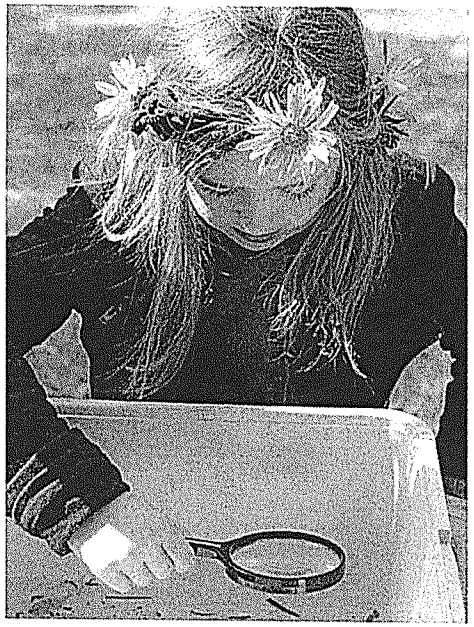
In short, a great time was had by all, and we hope to see you next year!

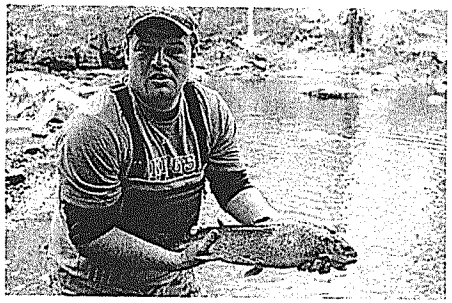


Raritan Scholar Now Completing Water Trail Brochure

RHA's Raritan Scholar Brayden Donnelly is literally a happy paddler. The rising Rutgers junior is taking to the waters to complete our South Branch Water Trail Brochure.

When completed, it will give paddlers and others all the ins-and-outs of enjoying the Raritan's South Branch between Clinton and its confluence with the North Branch.

RHA Protests Rule Changes That Threaten Water Supplies!



We are joining with other key state environmental groups in protesting DEP's proposed changes to development rules in the Highlands.

DEP wants to relax rules that could increase development in the Highlands Preservation Area by an average 400%. Stay tuned.

All the Buzz About Fairview Farm's Bees

Thirty-five of the state's 400 native bee species have been found here over the past five years. What did the team find? Click here to read on.
