The nation's cities continue to confront the prolonged effects of the economic downturn as high levels of unemployment, uncertainty about federal and state actions, and long-term pension and health benefit obligations persist.

Join us for the release of the National League of Cities' 28th annual City Fiscal Conditions report, followed by a dynamic panel of municipal experts and leaders who will discuss economic and fiscal drivers of the municipal sector and the prospects of whether municipal bankruptcy could be a reality for other cities moving forward.

In light of the current federal government shutdown, panelists will also discuss the economic implications of the shutdown for cities across the country.
