Today's Morris County is only a part of what was once Hanover Township. Join us to remember 300 years of the huge Iron Industry in North Jersey. Our industrial heritage is one of innovation – from the early Iron mines, the 1715 Olde Whippany Iron Forge, mills of all kinds, canals, then railroads – to modern communications. TV, Picatinny Arsenal's things that go boom, and even the vending machine are all our birthright. The many towns here: Mine Hill, Hibernia, Rockaway, Boonton, Montville, Chester, Long Pond, and Wharton – and more – all helped build the modern world. The still famous Iron Hills were truly the heart of our Industrial Revolution.
