The Permaculture 8-Day Design Certificate Course is Coming to Duke Farms in May!

"Permaculture is the conscious design of "cultivated" ecosystems that have the diversity, stability, & resilience of natural ecosystems. It is a harmonious integration of people into the landscape in such a way that the land grows in richness, productivity, and aesthetic beauty. " - Peter Bane, Permaculturist

"Permaculture is here to stay" Wayne Weiseman recently proclaimed to an enthusiastic class of 35 people attending the Mason Sustainability Institute's 3rd annual Permaculture Design Certification Course held at George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia.

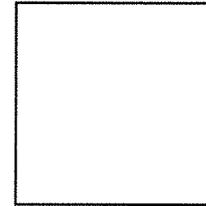

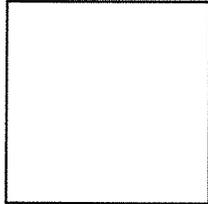

New Jersey native and current Director of The Permaculture Project LLC, Wayne will bring the 8-Day Permaculture Design Certification Course back to New Jersey in May after a 2 year hiatus. It will be taught over two long weekends, May 16-19 and June 6-9 at Duke Farms in Hillsborough, New Jersey.

Co-Sponsored by NOFA-NJ, Duke Farms, and The Permaculture Project LLC, the Permaculture Design Certificate Course is a training that utilizes the teachings of Bill Mollison's Permaculture Design System. The goal of the course is for students to understand the concepts and themes of Permaculture Design and to provide them with hands-on opportunities to apply the principles in practical situations for any landscape no matter the scale. Students will achieve a working understanding of ecologically-based planning, site design and management. Do not miss this unique opportunity to study with Wayne, one of the premier permaculture educators. Go to: Permaculture Design for more information and to register.
