Hurricane Sandy was a wakeup call to New Jersey, one that the state's electric utilities and water companies have heeded. But as they move ahead with plans to build a more robust, reliable power grid and water infrastructure, what options are being considered and what will be its price tag?

The NJ Spotlight Conference: Building a Sustainable Infrastructure After Sandy will tackle those and other tough questions. Presenters include Former Governor Jim Florio; key officials from State, Utility Authorities and Industry.

Topics include:New Jersey's Aging Water Infrastructure; The Power Grid in The Aftermath Of Sandy; Distributed Generation: The Wave of the Future
