Economic Development Spotlight

The South Paterson Business Association (SPBA) hired Millennium Strategies to conduct a Special Improvement District (SID) Feasibility study. In the heart of South Paterson lies 'Little Istanbul', where a mix of Lebanese, Syrian, Palestinian, and Turkish cultures come together to create a vibrant commercial district. The area plays host to a variety of stores, and is home to some of New Jersey's most recognized Middle Eastern restaurants. This cultural diversity can transform South Paterson to a unique destination for dining, shopping, and conducting business within northern New Jersey and beyond.

Stuart Koperweis, Senior Vice President of Economic Development and Revitalization at Millennium has 35 years experience working with Special Improvement Districts in New Jersey and New York. Throughout his tenure, he has secured approximately $90 million in grants and funding for projects, which has made him an influential voice in revitalizing communities. Stuart will leverage his experience with Millennium Strategies' multi-pronged approach to provide South Paterson with the tools needed to best succeed in developing a thriving SID.

As part of New Jersey's "Stronger than the Storm" campaign in conjunction with the Keyport Bayfront Business Cooperative (managed by Millennium Strategies), Keyport was selected to host a "Throwdown with Bobby Flay". Guests were there to see the ultimate Throwdown Chef, Bobby Flay, face off against Keyport's Hometown Chef, Drew Araneo, as they competed to see who can make the best voodoo shrimp. Celebrity judges included Gloria Gaynor, Darryl Dawkins and James Oseland.
