Subject: Discover DEP Podcast: Drought

This week's episode of Discover DEP is now live on the DEP website. This year has been particularly dry, causing DEP to issue a drought watch in late July for most of New Jersey. Jeff Hoffman, New Jersey's State Geologist, sits down with Bob Bostock to discuss droughts in New Jersey as well as DEP's role in public awareness, water conservation, and prevention of droughts.

This episode can be found at <http://www.nj.gov/dep/podcast/>.

For more information the drought watch and DEP's involvement, please visit <http://njdrought.org/>.

In addition to accessing the podcast on the DEP homepage, you can download our podcasts and subscribe to future editions through iTunes and Google Play.

The podcast is produced by the Office of Communications and the Division of Information Technology. If you have suggestions for future podcasts, or other feedback, please email podcast@dep.nj.gov.
